

Safety Check Report

Initial Exposure Snapshot

This reflects responses to six OSHA-critical areas commonly cited in small general-industry operations. It is not a full safety audit; it is a signal.

Company	Date Completed	Completed by
Meridian Warehouse Group	April 04, 2026	Safety Coordinator

SECTION 1 — RESULT STATUS

GO — Foundational Controls Present

Your responses indicate that basic safety controls are in place across the areas reviewed. This suggests your operation has structure where many do not.

However, this result does not confirm full compliance or audit readiness. It indicates a starting position, not a final condition.

SECTION 2 — QUESTION BREAKDOWN

01	Do you have a written Hazard Communication program and can your team locate the SDS for every chemical on site without delay? 29 CFR 1910.1200	Yes — Confirmed
02	Are forklift operators currently certified and are daily pre-shift inspections consistently documented? 29 CFR 1910.178	Yes — Confirmed
03	Do you have a written Lockout/Tagout program with documented annual inspections for each energy control procedure? 29 CFR 1910.147	Yes — Confirmed
04	Are machine guards in place on all equipment and have none been removed, bypassed, or modified? 29 CFR 1910.212	Yes — Confirmed
05	Are damaged ladders removed from service and tagged before they are used again? 29 CFR 1910.23	Yes — Confirmed

SECTION 3 — WHAT THIS SUGGESTS

Even strong operations typically show gaps in:

- documentation consistency
 - training record completeness
 - inspection documentation
 - real-world execution vs. written program
-

SECTION 4 — WHAT THIS DOES NOT SHOW

This check does not evaluate:

- full OSHA compliance
- condition of equipment
- quality of training
- actual behavior on the floor
- depth of documentation

It identifies where to look first.

SECTION 5 — RECOMMENDED NEXT STEP

What Comes Next

A walkthrough or documentation review provides:

- a clear picture of what is exposed
- a written report of findings
- a prioritized list of what to fix first
- documentation that holds under review

Pricing is straightforward and quoted up front; there are no retainers or long-term contracts.

Request a Walkthrough or Review

giglinecompliance.com • vince@giglinecompliance.com • 336-671-4967